

are going to stay after all. I mean, ladies and gentlemen, you always have something out there that you offer up on a big bill like this, and this is it. We just aren't taking the opportunity that they have given us. You can't hardly believe that they are going to leave the State of Nebraska. I mean, as far as I know, they haven't had their corporate jets and their mainframe computers exempt from personal property to date, why all of a sudden is it enough for them to leave the State of Nebraska. I mean, they aren't going to. It is plain and simple. There are not very many people that are going to use those corporate jets. There are not very many companies in the state who will be able to use this. A company that owns a turboprop would not be able to use this. It only applies to jets and mainframe computers. A large company which may not have a mainframe, which may only tie into someone else's, they only have personal computers, will not be able to use this benefit. It is limited to a small, small number of corporations. It is limited to a small, small number of people and I don't think we can do that. If nothing else, let's send a message. Let's send a message that, yeah, we are going to pass this because it looks like that is what is probably going to happen, but we are not going to pass it and allow those individuals to exclude the personal property on their corporate jets and their mainframe computers. There are a number of people that opposed that amendment, and I don't know, I am not sure why, yesterday when Senator Landis offered it. Many of them, I don't think, you know, have the capability to land a corporate jet in their districts. I mean I just don't understand it. It don't make sense to me. This is the kind of thing that if I was from a rural district and I saw that somebody was offering this up and I had a chance to take a shot at ConAgra in Omaha, I would be foaming at the mouth. I couldn't push that green button fast enough, but that is not happening, and I don't understand why. We are not taking the message that is being sent to us, and sooner and later, we, as a body, I think have to take control of the legislative process, and what is happening here in LB 775, and if we do nothing more than pull these two provisions out of the bill, for God's sake, let's do that. Let's at least send that message that we are not going to be totally blatant about what we do, that we are not going to be totally led around by the nose, and that we do have a mind of our own. The bottom line, we are the ones who push the buttons. The bottom line, we are the ones who make the decisions, and the bottom line, we have to do what is best for the people of this state, and I would argue, ladies and gentlemen, no matter what Senator Johnson will tell you about
